

Kender Energy Making Headway with Distributors Globally

August 27, 2009 - Kender Energy Inc. (PINKSHEETS: KNDR) is pleased to announce that it is making substantial progress with its distribution network globally.

According to the company's marketing plan, local and regional distributors will market the Kender Energy solar technology to their existing retailers and retail customer base. The company has received hundreds of applications and demands thus far and expects to sign several new distribution agreements shortly.

"We are really satisfied with the results of our distribution network thus far" said Sean Kelly, President and CEO of Kender Energy Inc. "The fastest and most efficient way to get our product to market is the use of the extended distribution network we are building and these partnerships will assure our success in the near and long-term" further added Mr. Kelly.

The potential distributors of the Kender Energy systems are actively using the feature for distributors placed on the company Web site at <http://www.kendersolar.com/index.php/Map-of-Distributors.html>.

About Kender Energy Inc.:

Kender Energy Inc. is a development phase company active in the field of solar energy. Its present prototypes of solar panels are being developed into a full-scale solar energy production system. The particularity of the Kender solar panel system and technology is to allow, via a closed circuit of gas (usually helium), to create a heat exchange with the sunlight and the air from the environment. The exchange generates the spinning of the helium gas in the closed circuit, propelling a turbine, which produces electricity in a 100% clean and renewable process. The system's main advantages are that it is efficient, cheap in production, and modular. The company is based near Geneva, Switzerland. Its Website is www.kendersolar.com.
